Can I add or remove restrictions on student content?

Gaggle recommends leaving student communications open, insofar as it is possible. Gaggle's content analysis and reviewing is applied not only to items sent and received within the school district, but also items sent or received by individuals outside of the school or district. If student communications are restricted, it's possible Gaggle will not have an opportunity to uncover inappropriate situations that are already going on in students' lives.

With any questions on lifting restrictions in student communications, please contact Gaggle's Customer Service team.
